Christian Eco-Spirituality
CRES Day 7th November 2026

Our next CRES in-person day (open to all) is on Saturday 7th November 2026 at Ripon College Cuddesdon (RCC) near Oxford. Our speaker is Rev. Dr. Robin Parry (biography below), author of Christian Eco-Spirituality: An Outline (2025). This will be a day where we will explore both the more theoretical aspects of Christian Eco-Spirituality, and putting this into practice. So book early with Mike to ensure your place (details below).

PROVISIONAL PROGRAMME

10.00-10.30	Arrivals and Coffee
10.30-10.45	Welcome and Introductions (Margot Hodson)
10.45-12.15	Session 1, Wisdom and Eco-Spirituality (Robin Parry)
12.15-12.30	Break
12.30-12.45	CRES News (Rachel Bathurst)
12.45-13.00	Free Time
13.00-14.00	Lunch
14.00-15.15	Session 2, Worship and Eco-Spirituality (Robin Parry)
15.15-15.45	Outdoor Worship in the Forest Church area
15.45-16.00	Tea and depart

Booking For CRES students, tutors, and steering group, the day is included in student fees. The fee for those not associated with the CRES course will be £30. But EVERYONE wanting to come MUST book with the CRES Administrator, Mike Jones, by 30th October at the latest. Email cres@jri.org.uk Further details will be sent out to those who have booked in early November.

The Revd Dr Robin Parry is Minor Canon for Eco-Spirituality at Worcester Cathedral and author of Christian Eco-Spirituality: An Outline (2025). Robin leads the Cathedral's eco-ministries: Worship in the Garden, Sacred Garden, and The Sophia Course. He has a PhD in Old Testament and has also published books on Christian ethics, trinitarian worship, the scope of salvation, deep church, the Book of Lamentations, aspects of sixteenth- to nineteenth-century church history, and biblical cosmology. He has worked in academic publishing for twenty-five years and before that was a teacher at a Sixth Form College. Robin and his wife Carol have two adult daughters and a three-legged cat called Monty. In his spare time Robin might be seen in a long scarf at Doctor Who conventions.